It is curious to find Emin Pasha, the African explorer, suggesting Chinese immigration to Africa. So long ago as 1881, in a letter address. ed to Dr. Schweinfurth, we are told by our Shanghai contemporary, EMIN laid it down as his conviction that it is not possible for Central Africa to be properly opened up except by means of the Chinese, and that if Chinese immigration into that wonderful and beautiful country, with all its rich resources, were properly taken in effecting the required communication between the various settlements by means of hand, the possibility would be afforded of the Chinese workmen, and a regular and fast increasing trade would be developed, that would repay a thousand fold such an undertaking. For four years prior to the date of this letter, Emin writes, this scheme had been one of his dearest projects, and he looked for Dr. Schweinfurth's assistance and influence to carry it out, and begged the Doctor to endeavour to convert disposed of there. It is not a case of pretty woman here, a nice (writes a correspondent of the Illustrated American from Montevideo). From the flower-girl who places a posy of gardenias by my plate at dinner, to the millionsire's daughter, who is rubbing her pretty nose against the pane of a joweller's shop in the Calle Veinte Cinco, admiring the works of Parisian artists, they are Barometer intoxicatingly levely. A plain face on a girl Temperature here acts like a shock to one. But, alse, the Direction of wind ... Montevideans is not satisfied with the complexion nature has given her. She paints the Weather lily. And then she is not belliant in converse. Rein tion: in fact, she is father dull. She grows stout, too, while she is still young. Again, it frequently happens that the hairs which the cares of housekeeping cause to fall from their heads land upon their upper lips. Every one appears to be well dressed, and one sees nothing of the poverty that stares one in the face at every corner in London por the cheap tawdrings of the Bowery. The women, from the rich estanciero's wife and daughters down to the servant-girl, have a chic about them that recalls the Parisienne. It is a very rare thing to see a Montevideans of the better class walking about the streets in the daytime, and not often are they to be seen driving in their very smart turn. outs. When any fete, such as the Carnival, ... is going on, they grace the balconies along the CHAMPAGNE Cts. $20 & Pts. $21 corso with their presence, playing with their DUBOS FRERES & DE GERMON & C fans as only women of Spanish blood can. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the examined at 11 A.M., 23th inst. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charac-To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16.000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appl cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples FUENISHED or this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub IES. For practical purposes the arrangement of LEUCHS' TRADE LISTS OF ALL the work is so complete, that a reference to its COUNTRIES in 36 VOLUMES. pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives WALES, and European Possessions, Vol 27a themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. West Indies, Vol. 30. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-
